AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

LITTLE TROUBLE APPREHENDED WITH AMERICAN INDIANS.

Braves Participating in the Ghost Dance—Cowboys Advised to be on their Guard—Indians Acting in a Suspicious Manner—Cattle Being Killed for their Feasts.

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 21.—John Hill committed suicide at 9 o'clock this morning. Mr. Hill was 29 years of age, and the rash act was caused by domestic trouble, he having separated from his wife some time before. About nine o'clock last night he tried to borrow a razor from his room mate, but was refused, owing to his suspicious actions. He went out later and after coming back took something which his room mate paid no attention to. Shortly after he became deathly sick, and his room mate surmising that he had taken poison ran for a physician. The first he called on refused to go to the sick man, and the result was Hill died unattended. He had taken enough opium to kill a regiment.

Suicided for Love.

SEATTLE, Nov. 22.—Nathan Smith, a young farm hand, 25 years of age, living at the edge of Yew, on the Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern railway, committed suicide early yesterday morning by taking strychnine. The motive for the rash act was a love disappointment, which drove young Smith distracted. He came into the community three months ago from Nova Scotia and at once got work as a farm hand on John Ashman's ranch about a quarter of a mile from Yew. Smith soon afterwards fell desperately in love with a young lady named Bessie Williams, living with her parents on their farm near by. Miss Williams is about twenty years of age and of a charmingly sweet disposition. Although she rather liked Smith she never once thought of marrying him, and she afterward calmly but firmly rejected his suit. Her parents also opposed his proposals. Young Smith was very much affected by the refusal, and concealing his passion as best he could, when he found further entreaties of no use, he suddenly left the girl, at the time saying something she did not quite catch. This was at 11 o'clock Wednesday night, and at 6 o'clock yesterday morning the Ashman people were horrified at finding Smith a corpse in his bed, with a half-drained strichnine bottle on a stand near by. The strychnine had evidently been procured from Ashman's woodshed, where it had been used to kill rats, as yesterday morning the bottle was missed from its usual place. The authorities at Snohomish were at once notified and the remains were taken there last evening. It is known that Smith has relations in Nova Scotia, and word was sent them last evening. Smith left few effects and but little money.

A Thievish Postmaster.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 22.—The United States grand jury, in session at Helena, has indicted William Patterson, formerly postmaster at Red Lodge, Missoula county, on a charge of setting fire to the postoffice there. In June last the postoffice at Red Lodge was burned to the ground with its contents. There was supposed to be $1000 worth of stamps in the office at the time. Shortly afterward Patterson resigned and left the place. It has been discovered that on the night of the fire he gave a package to T. E. McDonald to keep until he sent for it. Later on Patterson had McDonald send the package to St. Paul. McDonald was arrested as an accomplice, but there being no evidence against him, the grand jury dismissed the case. Marshal Faray has hunted for Patterson in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Wyoming, but has failed to come up with him. He is believed to be hiding somewhere in Buffalo county, Wyoming.

ROW AMONG REDSKINS,

But There is no Immediate Prospect of War With Them.

FORT NIOBRARA, Neb., via Valentine, Neb., Nov. 20.—The troops from Fort Niobrara reached Rosebud agency early this morning, and found all quiet and peaceful. The Messiah craze has not been as prevalent at Rosebud agency, and most of those affected by it left several days ago for Pine Ridge, to participate in the ghost dance. The presence of a large number of these Indians, with a dozen wagons, in Valentine yesterday for the purpose of freighting agency goods to Rosebud, when they knew that troops were marching to the agency, was assuring to the people that little trouble was apprehended. It is also considered good evidence that there will be no trouble at Pine Ridge, where it is thought most of the present row was caused by the new and inexperienced agent.

PIERRE, Dak., Nov. 20.—Capt. Norville, special Indian agent stationed at this point, returned to-day from a trip up Red river, where he had gone on receipt of a report that the Indians, on account of the Messiah dance, were failing to attend the distribution of rations and killing cattle. He reports that he found the Indians much excited and keeping up their famous ghost dances with a zest and perseverance that is alarming. He found Hump Reed with about 300 braves of Two Kettle's band all painted up and acting in a very suspicious manner. Cowboys who arrived here to-night stated that the Indians had killed a number of cattle and were acting strangely, and that the famous Indian, Stepps and Crippie, had told them that they had better keep on their guard. The same chief told Captain Norville that several hostiles had urged his people to go and join in the ghost dances, making threats that if they did not enough force would be sent against them to kill them all. They claim to stand in great fear of the hostiles.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 22.—A dispatch from Pine Ridge from James N. Finley, formerly of this city, but now post trader at the Pine Ridge agency, was received here to-night. The dispatch mentions the arrival of troops and continues as follows:

The Indians are actually crazed with religious fanaticism, and the excitement at the ghost dance is of a most intense character. Add to their excitement the utter recklessness of consequences induced by their blind fanaticism, and you may gain some idea of the situation. It is the general opinion among the troops that they will be ordered in a day or two to stop the Indian ghost dance. Then trouble will undoubtedly follow. Two or three dances are now in progress. A herder who just reached here reports that several hundred Indians have congregated secretly nine miles from this place. They are all heavily armed, and expect the Rosebud Sioux to join them shortly.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—General Miles this evening received a telegram from Rushville informing him that General Brooke's command reached Pine Ridge at 7 o'clock this morning. The Indians are coming in in large numbers from Rosebud. There is much excitement, and the ghost dance continues.

General Miles, too, has received a communication from an officer at Camp Poplar River, Montana, dated November 17, containing considerable matter of interest with reference to the Messiah craze. The officer reports the Indians in that vicinity affected by the prevailing craze, and even the more intelligent halfbreeds believe in it. Numbers of young Indians recently procured new Winchester rifles, but where the officer could not ascertain. There has been no excitement up there yet, nor any dance, but there is deep and universal interest and belief that there will be astonishing supernatural manifestations before very long. One of Sitting Bull's lieutenants, White Gut, with two other Sioux, has recently been up there preaching the new doctrine, denouncing the schools and telling the Indians to provide themselves with arms and ammunition, and meet the other Indians next spring in the Black Hills country. They were ordered off the reservation and went to the Woody mountains, north of the British line, to proselytize the remnants of the Ogallalas and Uncapapas. One of the loyal Indians told this officer that in case the Sioux should open hostilities, many young warriors from that vicinity were likely to go and join them. The Ogallalas and Uncapapas, north of the British line, are a bad lot. Some of them were in the Custer affair, and some of the older ones were concerned in the Minnesota massacre of 1862. The Gros Ventres Indians at the Fort Belknap reservation, are in a very turbulent state. As an instance of the stories floating around, the officer tells one current on the reservation, to the effect that several young warriors started from there to visit Sitting Bull and learn about the new Messiah. On the way one of them, Yellow Hawk, said he had been commanded in a dream to kill himself, as a test of faith, with the promise that he should be raised from death. He committed suicide accordingly, and the party went on without him. When they reached Standing Rock they found Yellow Hawk there, alive and well, having been resurrected and taken to Standing Rock ahead of his company. This is the story sent back by travellers.

General Miles expressed great satisfaction this evening that General Brooke and the troops reached the agency this morning before the Indians had time to inaugurate hostilities, and the further fact that the latter are not committing any violence.

"Now," said he, "they have to attack us in our own position or else break away from the reservation. The danger is now that the turbulent bucks may leave the reservation. The appearance of General Brooke's command, however, will have the effect of sustaining the authority of the government and give protection to the loyal element among the Indians.

OMAHA, Nov. 20.—Orders have been received at Fort Omaha to have the four remaining companies of the Second infantry ready to go to the front at a moment's notice. The companies immediately began to pack up, and inside of two hours everything necessary for a winter campaign was placed on board cars. These companies, so far at least as commanders are concerned, comprise some of the oldest Indian fighters in this section of the country.

KOCH'S GREAT CONSUMPTION CURE AND ITS RESULTS.

Poor Patients Advised not to go to Berlin—English Physicians Make Fruitless Journeys to the German Capital—Big Prices Paid for Lymph.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—In response to a message of congratulation from Prof. Pasteur, Dr. Koch has sent the eminent French bacteriologist a specimen of the lymph used in treating tuberculosis.

Salaries for M. P's.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The National Liberal association has adopted a resolution favoring the payment of salaries to members of parliament.

Barings to Reorganize.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—It is reported that a reconstruction of Messrs. Barings as a stock company is imminent. Mr. T. Baring has offered to return, bringing in £1,000,000. Messrs. C. Hambro & Son will probably amalgamate with it and fresh capital will be furnished by one of the Guinnesses. The rumor that Messrs. Rothchilds have pledged £4,000,000 as a guarantee of the payment of Argentine dividends is unfounded.

KOCH'S GREAT REMEDY.

Great Scramble to Get Lymph—The Supply Exhausted—Big Prices Paid.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—A World's special cable from Berlin says: Four doctors in Berlin, whom Dr. Koch so far has intrusted with the exclusive practice of his cure, are exploiting Koch to enrich their own pockets by purposely withholding information till their personal nests are well feathered. With the exception of Doctors Bergman, Corn, Levy and Kohler, the physicians in general practice in Berlin are as ignorant of details of the cure as are physicians in New York and London. English doctors are here by hundreds, but they are permitted to see little and learn less. They complain bitterly of the scant courtesy that is shown to them. It will be the same with the American doctors, when they arrive. To see Koch personally is practically impossible. To procure a supply of lymph is out of the question, while admission to the hospital to see patients operated upon is beset by so many barriers that many have given up the effort in disgust and have gone home. I know of one Englishman who arrived from London to-day in response to a telegram from his English doctor, who charged him $60 for obtaining a room at the hospital. He will visit him each day for treatment there, at $5 a visit, with the addition of heavy charges by the doctor who conducts the operation. No poor patient should come to Berlin yet. Charity treatment has been suspended for the present because the supply of lymph is so nearly exhausted. There are nearly 200 German applicants for every free bed. Concerning the frantic efforts made by visiting doctors to get lymph, I can only give the following facts: In a small phial lymph undiluted costs, according to Koch's price, $6. This phial undiluted will inoculate 200 patients. One London physician was offering today $50 for ten drops of undiluted lymph, if delivered in time for him to catch the express for London to-night. The only one English doctor so far, who has succeeding in getting a phial of lymph, is Watson Cheyne, surgeon of King's College hospital, London. He left Berlin yesterday with sixty drops given him after the power of the whole British embassy had been exerted in his favor, aside from his long acquaintanse with Koch. Under the the circumstances it looks as though it will be a long time before any of the precious fluid reaches America. By far the largest number of cases treated so far have not been phthisis, but lupus. The best results have been obtained with lupus patients. No English speaking patient so far as I can learn, has yet been inoculated for consumption of lungs, but one of the most successful treatments was an English lady inoculated for lupus. The end of her nose was eaten away, and a hideous scar was covering her entire face. After two days, the scabs fell off and the flesh below looked rosy, healthy, soft and natural to the touch. The swelling had diminished and the patient felt improved, ate and slept well and at the end of two weeks was vastly improved in appearance. The sores all healed and were covered with a dry skin. In another week the patient will be well and probably be discharged cured.

ENGLISH NEWS.

Booth Meets With Great Success and Raises Considerable Money.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—General Booth, of the Salvation Army, has begun a stumping tour of the provinces in advocacy of his scheme for the relief of the poverty striken masses of England. He has met with a gratifying reception thus far and has collected liberal sums for the cause. At Bradford the amount contributed was $15,000 and much enthusiasm was manifested.

From Tipperary comes news that Tim Haggerty, a well known priest, who has for a long time been dissatisfied with the local management of the league, has uttered in public language strongly denouncing the conduct of Parnell in the O'Shea case, and advising his flock to abandon the movement while Parnell is connected with it.

A Source of Joy.

MORE LIGHT FOR VICTORIA.

The Victoria Electric Lighting Company Remodelled—Extensive Undertakings.

An unquestionable indication of Victoria's onward march in prosperity and increased population is found in the resolution of the Victoria Electric and Illuminating company to more than double the capacity of their present plant and appliances. It has been felt for some time past that this step was growing more necessary every month owing to the constantly increasing applications for service.

A new company has been formed largely out of the material constituting the old one, and will start perfectly free from all encumbrances and with a thoroughly healthy business connection. They are in a position, too, to command as soon as they are in a position to operate it, as much capital as they require. This will be most probably by the 31st of March. The company has been operating within a radius of half a mile from the central station and now are in a position to extend that radius to three-quarters of a mile; but as soon as the new arrangements are completed the operation can be extended to any section of the city and also supply many business places and communities outside the city.

The president of the new company is Mr. Louis Redon; Mr. Edgar Crow Baker is managing director and also secretary-treasurer, pro tem.; Mr. Matthew Hutcheson is superintendent. The directors are Messrs. Louis Redon, E. Crow Baker, W. P. Sayward, Joshua Davies and W. J. Taylor and among the members of the new company are such names as R. P. Rithet, Louis Redon, E. Crow Baker, W. J. Taylor, T. Shotbolt, D. E. Campbell, W. P. Sayward, Joshua Davies and other prominent men.

WHO ARE CANDIDATES?

Elections for Mayor and Aldermen Will Soon be in Order.

The time for the civic election is fast nearing, the law stating that the nominations for mayor and aldermen must be made on the second day of January, elections to be held the Thursday following. This year there will be beside the mayor, three aldermen from each ward, as according to the new act the nine aldermanic chairs are all vacant simultaneously and a new council must be elected.

The present incumbents are eligible but none of them have as yet signified it as their intention to run again. Neither have any outside aspirants for civic honors yet come forward. Probably there will be several before the nomination day, but who they will be no man knows. One or two of the present board have stated that they won't run for election again, but whether the decision will be reconsidered or not remains to be seen.

AMONG THE BEDOUINS.

EIGHTH SERMON OF DR. TALMAGE ON HIS RECENT TOUR IN PALESTINE.

The Father of Such as Dwell in Tents and Have Cattle"—How the Patriarchs Lived in Tents—Jacob's Well—The Plain of Esdraelon-Armageddon.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 16.—This morning in the Academy of Music in this city, and this evening at The Christian Herald service in the New York Academy of Music, Dr. Talmage preached the eighth of the series of sermons he is giving on his tour in Palestine. At both services the respective buildings were crowded to their utmost capacity in five minutes after the doors were opened, and all who came later were unable to get in. Dr. Talmage's subject was "Among the Bedouins," and his text Gen. x, 31: "Forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness." "Night after night we have slept in tent in Palestine. There are large villages of Bedouins without a house, and for three thousand years the people of those places have lived in black tents, made out of dyed goats' hair, and when the winds and storms tore out and tore loose those coverings the users of the same kind took their places. Joshua lived in a tent; Abraham in a tent. Jacob pitched his tent on the mountain. Isaac pitched his tent in the valley. Lot pitched his tent toward Sodom. In a tent a woman Jael nailed Sisera, the general, to the ground, first having given him sour milk called "leben" as a soporific to make him sleep soundly, that being the effect of such nutrition, as modern travelers can testify. The Syrian army in a tent. The ancient battle shout was "To your tents, O Israel!" Paul was a tent maker. Inspired, Isaiah, magnificently poetic, indicates that all the human race live under a large tent when he says that God "stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in." And Hezekiah compares death to the striking of a tent, saying, "My age is removed from me as a shepherd's tent."

"In our tent in Palestine to-night I hear something I never heard before and hope never to hear again. It is the voice of a woman amid the rocks near by. When you may have seen this monster putting his mouth between the iron bars of a menagerie he is a captive, and he gives a humiliated and suppressed cry. But yonder in the midnight on a throne of rocks he has nothing to fear, and he utters himself in a sound, resounding, terrific, almost supernatural sound, splitting up the darkness into a deeper midnight. It begins with a howl and ends with a sound something like a horse's whining. In the hyena's voice are defiance and strength and bloodthirstiness and crunch of broken bones and death.

BEASTS OF PREY NO LONGER THERE.

"I am glad to say that for the most part Palestine is clear of beasts of prey. The leopards, which Jeremiah says cannot change their spots, have all disappeared, and the lions that once were common all through this land, and used by all the prophets for illustrations of cruelty and wrath, have retreated before the discharges of gunpowder, of which they have an inscrutable fear. But for the most part Palestine is what it originally was. With the one exception of a wire thread reaching from Joppa to Jerusalem and from Jerusalem to Nazareth and from Nazareth to Tiberias and from Tiberias to Damascus, that one nerve of civilization, the telegraphic wire (for we found ourselves only a few minutes off from Brooklyn and New York while standing by Lake Galilee), with that one exception Palestine is just as it always was.

"Nothing surprised me so much as the existence of everything. A sheep or horse falls dead, and though the sky may be one minute before be clear of all wings in five minutes after the skies are black with eagles cawing, screaming, plunging, fighting for room, contending for largest morsels of the extinct quadruped. Ah, now I understand the force of Christ's illustration when he said, "Wheresoever the carcass is there will the eagles be gathered together." The longevity of those eagles is wonderful. They live fifty and sixty and sometimes a hundred years. Ah, that explains what David meant when he said, "Thy youth is renewed like the eagle's." I saw a shepherd with the folds of his coat far bent outward, and I wondered what was contained in that amplitude of apparel, and I said to the dragoman, "What is that shepherd got under his coat?" And the dragoman said, "It is a very young lamb he is carrying; it is too young and too weak and too cold to keep up with the flock." At that moment I saw the lamb put its head out from the shepherd's bosom and I said, "There it is now, Isaiah's description of the tenderness of God—he shall gather the lambs with his arm and carry them in his bosom."

WOMEN EARLY AT THE SEPULCHER.

"Passing by a village home, in the Holy Land, about noon I saw a great crowd in and around a private house, and I said to the dragoman, "David, what is going on there?" He said, "Somebody has recently died there, and their neighbors go in for several days after to sit down and weep with the bereaved." There it is, I said, the old scriptural custom, "And many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary, to comfort them concerning their brother." Early in the morning passing by a cemetery in the Holy Land I saw among the graves about fifty women dressed in black, and they were crying: "Oh, my child!" "Oh, my husband!" "Oh, my father!" "Oh, my mother!" Our dragoman told us that every morning, very early for three mornings after a burial, the women go to the sepulcher, and after that every week very early for a year. As I saw this group just after daybreak I said, "There it is again, the same old custom referred to in Luke, the evangelist, where he says, 'Certain women which were early at the sepulcher.'"

THE WONDERFUL WELL OF JACOB.

"But here we found ourselves at Jacob's well, the most famous well in history, most distinguished for two things, because it belonged to the old patriarch after whom it was named, and for the wonderful things which Christ said, seated on this well curb, to the Samaritan woman. We dismount from our horses in a drizzling rain, and our dragoman, climbing up to the well over the slippery stones, stumbles and frightens us all by nearly falling into it. I measured the well at the top and found it six feet from edge to edge. Some grass and weeds and thorny growths overhang it. In one place the roof is broken through. Large stones embank the wall on all sides.

"Our dragoman took pebbles and dropped them in, and from the time they left his hand to the instant they clicked on the bottom you could hear it was deep, though not as deep as once, for every day travelers are applying the same test, and though in the time of Maundrell, the traveler, the well was a hundred and sixty-five feet deep, now it is only seventy-five. So great is the curiosity of the world to know about that well that during the dry season a Capt. Anderson descended into this well, at one place the sides so close he had to put his hands over his head in order to get through, and then he fainted away and lay at the bottom of the well as though dead, until hours after recovery he came to the surface.

It is not like other wells digged down to a fountain that fills it, but a reservoir to catch the falling rains, and to that Christ refers when speaking to the Samaritan woman about a spiritual supply he said he would, if asked, have given her "living water," that is, water from a flowing spring in distinction from the water of that well, which was rain water. But why did Jacob make a reservoir there when there is plenty of water all around and abundance of springs and fountains and seemingly no need of that reservoir? Why did Jacob go to the vast expense of boring and digging a well perhaps two hundred feet deep as first completed, when, by going a little way off, he could have water from other fountains at little or no expense? Ah, Jacob was wise. He wanted his own well. Quarrels and wars might arise with other tribes and the supply of water might be cut off, so the shovels and pickaxes and boring instruments were ordered, and the well of nearly four thousand years ago was sunk through the solid rock.

When Jacob thus wisely insisted on having his own well he taught us not to be unnecessarily dependent on others. Independence of business character, independence of moral character, independence of religious character. Have your own well of grace, your own well of courage, your own well of divine supply. If you are an invalid you have a right to be dependent on others. But if God has given you good health, common sense, and two eyes and two ears and two hands and two feet, he equipped you for independence of all the universe except himself. If he had meant you to be dependent on others you would have been built with a cord around your waist to tie fast to somebody else. No; you are built with common sense to fashion your own opinions, with eyes to find your own way, with ears to select your own music, with hands to fight your own battles. There is only one being in the universe whose advice you need and that is God. Have your own well and the Lord will fill it. Dig it if need be through two hundred feet of solid rock. Dig it with your pen, or dig it with your yard stick, or dig it with your shovel, or dig it with your Bible.

YOUNG MAN! BUILD FOR YOURSELF.

In my small way I never accomplished anything for God or the church, or the world, or my family, or myself except in contradiction to human advice and in obedience to divine counsel. God knows everything, and what is the use of going for advice to human beings who know so little that no one but the all seeing God can realize how little it is? I suppose that when Jacob began to dig this well on which we are sitting this noontide people gathered around and said, "What a useless expense you are going to, when rolling down from yonder Mount Gerizim and down from yonder Mount Ebal and out yonder in the valley is plenty of water!" "Oh," replied Jacob, "that is all true, but suppose my neighbors should get angered against me and cut off my supply of mountain beverage, what would I do, and what would my family do, and what would my flocks and herds do? Forward, ye brigade of pickaxes and crowbars, and go down into the depths of those rocks and make me independent of all except him who fills the bottles of the clouds! I must have my own well!"

Young man, drop cigars and cigarettes and wine cups and the Sunday excursions, and build your own house, and have your own wardrobe, and be your own capitalist! "Why, I have only five hundred dollars income a year!" says some one. Then spend four hundred dollars of it in living, and 10 per cent. of it, or fifty dollars, in benevolence, and the other fifty in beginning to dig your own well. Or if you have a thousand dollars a year spend eight hundred dollars of it in living, 10 per cent., or one hundred dollars, in benevolence, and the remaining one hundred in beginning to dig your own well. The largest bird that ever flew through the air was hatched out of one egg, and the greatest estate was brooded out of one dollar.

GOD WILL DO HIS PART.

I suppose when Jacob began to dig this well, on whose curb we are now seated this December noon, it was a dry season then as now, and some one comes up and says: "Now, Jacob, suppose you get the well fifty feet deep or two hundred feet deep and there should be no water to fill it, would you not feel silly?" People passing along the road and looking down from Mount Gerizim or Mount Ebal near by would laugh and say, "That is Jacob's well, a great hole in the rock, illustrating the man's folly." Jacob replied, "There never has been a well in Palestine or any other country that once thoroughly dug was not soonor or later filled from the clouds, and this will be no exception."

For months after Jacob had completed the well people went by, and out of respect for the deluded old man put their hand over their mouth to hide a snicket, and the well remained as dry as the bottom of a kettle that has been hanging over the fire for three hours. But one day the sun was drawing water, and the wind got round to the east and it began to drizzle, and then great drops splashed all over the well curb, and the heavens opened their reservoir and the rainy season poured its floods for six weeks, and there came maidens to the well with empty pails and carried them away full, and the camels thrust their mouths into the troughs and were satisfied, and the water was in the well three feet deep, and fifty feet deep, and two hundred feet deep, and all the Bedouins of the neighborhood and all the passersby realized that Jacob was wise in having his own well. My hearer, it is your part to dig your own well, and it is God's part to fill it. You do your part and he will do his part.

Much is said about "good luck," but people who are industrious and self denying almost always have good luck. You can afford to be laughed at because of your application and economy, for when you get your well dug and filled it will be your turn to laugh.

THE MOUNTS OF BLESSING AND CURSING.

But look up from this famous well and see two mountains and the plain between them, on which was gathered the largest religious audience that ever assembled on earth, about five hundred thousand people. Mount Gerizim, about eight hundred feet high, on one side, and on the other Mount Ebal, the former called the Mount of Blessing and the latter called the Mount of Cursing. At Joshua's command six tribes stood on Mount Gerizim and read the blessings for keeping the law, and six tribes stood on Mount Ebal reading the curses for breaking the law, while the five hundred thousand people on the plain cried Amen with an emphasis that must have made the earth tremble. "I do not believe that," says some one, "for those mountain tops are two miles apart, and how could a voice be heard from top to top?" My answer is that while the tops are two miles apart, the bases of the mountains are only half a mile apart, and the tribes stood on the sides of the mountains, and the air is so clear and the acoustic qualities of this great natural amphitheatre so perfect that voices can be distinctly heard from mountain to mountain, as has been demonstrated by travelers fifty times in the last fifty years.

Can you imagine anything more thrilling and sublime and overwhelming than what transpired on those two mountain sides, and in the plain between, when the responsive service went on and thousands of voices on Mount Gerizim cried, "Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the fields, blessed shall be thy basket and thy store!" and then from Mount Ebal, thousands of voices responded crying: "Cursed be he that removeth his neighbor's landmark! Cursed be he that maketh the blind to wander out of the way," and then there rolled up from all the spaces between the mountains that one word with which the devout of earth close their prayers and the glorified of heaven finish their doxologies, "Amen! Amen!"—that scene only to be surpassed by the times which are coming, when the churches and the academies of music and the auditoriums of earth, no longer large enough to hold the worshipers of God; the parks, the mountain sides, the great natural amphitheatres of the valleys, shall be filled with the outpouring populations of the earth and mountain shall reply to mountain, as Mount Gerizim to Mount Ebal, and all the people between shall ascribe riches and honor and glory and dominion and victory to God the Lamb, and there shall arise an amen like the booming of the heavens mingling with the thunder of the seas.

THE HEARTBROKEN FATHER.

On and on we ride, until now we have come to Shiloh, a dead city on a hill surrounded by rocks, sheep, goats, olive gardens and vineyards. Here good Eli fell backward and broke his neck, and lay dead at the news from his bad boys, Phineas and Hophni; and life is not worth living after one's children have turned out badly, and more fortunate was Eli, instantly expiring under such tidings, than those parents who, their children recreant and profligate, live on with broken hearts to see them going down into deeper and deeper plunge. There are fathers and mothers here today to whom death would be happy release because of their recreant sons. And if there be recreant sons here present, and your parents be far away, why not bow your head in repentance, and at the close of this service go to the telegraph office and put it on the wing of the lightning that you have turned from your evil ways? Before another twenty-four hours have passed take your feet off the sad hearts of the old homestead. Home to thy God, O prodigal!

Many, many letters do I get in purport saying: My son is in your cities; we have not heard from him for some time; we fear something is wrong; hunt him up and say a good word to him; his mother is almost crazy about him; he is a child of many prayers. But how can I hunt him up unless he be in this audience? Where are you, my boy? On the main floor, or on this platform, or in these boxes, or in these great galleries? Where are you? Lift your right hand. I have a message from home. Your father is anxious about you; your mother is praying for you. Your God is calling for you. Or will you wait until Eli falls back lifeless, and the heart against which you lay in infancy ceases to beat? What a story to tell in eternity that you killed her? My God! Avert that catastrophe!

But I turn from this Shiloh of Eli's sudden decease under bad news from his boys and find close by what is called the "Meadow of the Feast." While this ancient city was in the height of its prosperity on this "Meadow of the Feast" there was an annual ball, where the maidens of the city amid clapping cymbals and a blare of trumpets danced in glee, upon which thousands of spectators gazed. But no dance since the world stood ever broke up in such a strange way as the one the Bible describes. One night while by the light of the lamps and torches these gayeties went on, two hundred Benjamites, who had been hidden behind the rocks and among the trees, dashed upon the scene. They came not to injure or destroy, but wishing to set up households of their own, the women of their own land having been slain in battle, by preconcerted arrangement each one of the two hundred Benjamites seized the one whom he chose for the queen of his home and carried her away to large estate and beautiful residence, for these two hundred Benjamites had inherited the wealth of a nation.

BENJAMITE COURTSHIP.

As today near Shiloh we look at the "Meadow of the Feast," where the maidens danced that night, and at the mountain gorge up which the Benjamites carried their brides, we bethink ourselves of the better land and the better times in which we live, when such scenes are an impossibility, and amid orderly groups and with prayer and benediction, and breath of

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW.

SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

AMONG THE BEDOUINS.

orange blossoms, and the roll of the wedding march, marriage is solemnized and with oath recorded in heaven, two immortals start arm in arm on a journey to last until death do them part. Upon every such marriage altar may there come the blessing of him "who setteth the solitary in families!" Side by side on the path of life! Side by side in their graves! Side by side in heaven!

But we must this afternoon, our last day before reaching Nazareth, pitch our tent on the most famous battlefield of all time—the plain of Esdraelon. What must have been the feelings of the Prince of Peace as he crossed it on the way from Jerusalem to Nazareth? Not a flower blooms there but has in its veins the inherited blood of flowers that drank the blood of fallen armies. Hardly a foot of ground that has not at some time been gullied with war chariots or trampled with the hoofs of cavalry.

It is a plain reaching from the Mediterranean to the Jordan. Upon it look down the mountains of Tabor and Gilboa and Carmel. Through it rages at certain seasons the river Kishon, which swept down the armies of Sisera, the battle occurring in November when there is almost always a shower of meteors, so that "the stars in their courses" were said to have fought against Sisera. Through this plain drove Jehu, and the iron chariots of the Canaanites, scythed at the hubs of the wheels, hewing down their awful swathes of death, thousands in a minute. The Syrian armies, the Turkish armies, the Egyptian armies again and again trampled it. There they career across it. David and Joshua and Godfrey and Richard Cœur de Lion and Baldwin and Saladin—a plain not only famous for the past, but famous because the Bible says the great decisive battle of the world will be fought there—the battle of Armageddon.

THE FIGHT FOR THE HOLY CROSS.

To me the plain was the more absorbing because of the desperate battles here and in regions round in which the holy cross—the very two pieces of wood on which Jesus was supposed to have been crucified—was carried as a standard at the head of the Christian host, and that night closing my eyes in my tent on the plain of Esdraelon—for there are some things we can see better with eyes shut than open—the scenes of that ancient war come before me. The Twelfth century was closing and Saladin at the head of eighty thousand mounted troops was crying, "Ho! for Jerusalem!" "Ho! for all Palestine!" and before them everything went down, but not without unparalleled resistance. In one place one hundred and thirty Christains were surrounded by many thousands of furious Mohammedans. For one whole day the one hundred and thirty held out against these thousands. Tennyson's "six hundred" when "some one had blundered," were eclipsed by these one hundred and thirty fighting for the holy cross. They took hold of the lances which had pierced them with death wounds, and pulling them out of their own breasts and sides hurled them back again at the enemy.

On went the fight until all but one Christian had fallen and he, mounted on the last horse, wielded his battle ax right and left till his horse fell under the plunge of the javelins, and the rider, making the sign of the cross toward the sky, gave up his life on the point of a score of spears. But soon after the last battle came. History portrays it, poetry chants it, painting colors it, and all ages admire that last struggle to keep in possession the wooden cross on which Jesus was said to have expired. It was a battle in which mingled the fury of devils and the grandeur of angels. Thousands of dead Christians on this side. Thousands of dead Mohammedans on the other side. The battle was hottest close around the wooden cross upheld by the bishop of Ptolemais, himself wounded and dying. And when the bishop of Ptolemais dropped dead, the bishop of Lydda seized the cross and again lifted it, carrying it onward into a wilder and fiercer fight, and sword against javelin, and battle ax upon helmet, and piercing spear against splintering shield. Horses and men tumbled into heterogeneous death. Now the wooden cross on which the armies of Christians had kept their eye begins to waver, begins to descend. It falls! and the wailing of the Christian host at its disappearance drowns the huzza of the victorious Moslems.

THE TRIUMPH OF THE CROSS.

But that standard of the cross only seemed to fall. It rides the sky today in triumph. Five hundred million souls, the mightiest army of the ages, are following it and where that goes they will go, across the earth and up the mighty steeps of the heavens. In the Twelfth century it seemed to go down, but in the Nineteenth century it is the mightiest symbol of glory and triumph, and means more than any other standard, whether inscribed with eagle, or lion, or bear, or star, or crescent. That which Saladin trampled on the plain of Esdraelon I lift today for your marshaling. The cross! The cross! The foot of it planted in the earth it saves, the top of it pointing to the heavens to which it will take you, and the outspread beam of it like outstretched arms of invitation to all nations. Kneel at its foot. Lift your eye to its victim. Swear eternal allegiance to its power. And as that mighty symbol of pain and triumph is kept before us, we will realize how insignificant are the little crosses we are called to bear, and will more cheerfully carry them.

Must Jesus bear the cross alone,
And all the world go free?
No, there's a cross for every one
And there's a cross for me.

As I fall asleep to-night on my pillow in the tent on the plain of Esdraelon reaching from the Mediterranean to the Jordan, the waters of the river Kishon soothing me as by a lullaby, I hear the gathering of the hosts for the last battle of all the earth. And by their representatives America is here and Europe is here and Asia is here and Africa is here, and all heaven is here and all hell is here, and Apollyon on the black horse leads the armies of darkness, and Jesus on the white horse leads the armies of light, and I hear the roll of the drums and the clear call of the clarions and the thunder of the cannonades. And then I hear the wild rush of a million of troops in retreat, and then the shout of victory as from fourteen hundred million throats, and then a song as though all the armies of earth and heaven were joining it, clapping cymbals, beating the time—"The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign for ever and ever."

A MINISTER'S CRIME.

An Eloquent Young Divine Convicted—He Loved a Dashing Widow.

CRAWFORDSHIRE, Ind., Nov. 20.—The jury in the case of Rev. W. F. Pettit, charged with the murder of his wife, this morning rendered a verdict of guilty and fixed his punishment at imprisonment for life. The crime for which Rev. Pettit stands convicted was the murder of his wife at their home in Shawnee Mound, Ind. She was sick only three days and died in convulsions. The body was hastily embalmed and taken to her old home at West Monroe, N. Y., for burial. Her age was 34 years. Her husband was four years her junior and was an eloquent young divine, with a bright future before him. He had been in charge of the Methodist Episcopal church at Shawnee Mound for two years. Mr. Pettit stood high in Masonic circles and was grand prelate of the Knights Templar of Indiana. When his wife was taken sick she said she believed she had been poisoned with strychnine, which had been scattered about the house for the purpose of killing rats. However, she improved, and the attending physician pronounced her out of danger. But two days later she was again taken down and died in convulsions, the symptoms pointing strongly to poisoning by strychnine, that had evidently been administered in successive doses. The suspicions of the neighbors were aroused and it was whispered about that Rev. Mr. Pettit had poisoned his wife. What gave color to the suspicion was that there was a wealthy and dashing young widow, a member of the church, with whom the preacher had been very intimate before his wife's death. It is pretty well established that Mr. Pettit and the widow Whitehead were engaged to be married before Mrs. Pettit died. In fact, the state did offer to prove this fact in court, and also that they were criminally intimate both before and after her death, but it was not allowed.

Upon Petitt's return he attended a camp meeting at Battle Ground, and one morning, going into a cottage bedroom where Mrs. Whitehead and her sister and brother-in-law were quartered, pulled her about in the bed before she got up. He chided her for hugging her pillow and even told her that she should get something better to hug. His wife at that time had not been dead two weeks. A day or two later he asked several persons how long it would be necessary for him to wait before he could with propriety marry again. At Shawnee Mound a church meeting was called to consider the parson's actions. He acknowledged his indiscretions, but said that no wrong had been done, and that he would do better in the future. He was retained until the meeting of the conference, when he was permitted to withdraw from the ministry under charges. He refused to stand trial, although he was told that the withdrawal under charges meant that he had murdered his wife. He was advised by friends to leave the country, but he only went as far as Columbus, O., where he was arrested in September on the charge of murder, after the matter had been investigated by two grand juries. Mrs. Whitehead was also arrested as an accessory, but was afterwards released, as the state wanted to try him first. She is now in California. The trial consumed six weeks. When the verdict was announced Pettit broke down and cried like a child. A motion for a new trial will be made.

THE RULER OF SAMOA.

The New Chief Justice Who Will be the Power Behind the Throne.

WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 20.—Justice Cedorkrantz, who was appointed by King Oscar of Sweden, to act as arbitrator in the Samoan disputes, is in the city, and called on Blaine at the state department to-day. He is a man of fine appearance and even in America, where the young men come to the front in such numbers, he would be considered youthful for such a dignified position. In explaining his interesting mission, he said:

It is a difficult task I undertake, but I trust to exercise my authority for the best interests of all concerned. By the terms of the Berlin conference the natives were guaranteed self-government. They are to have a native king, but it is left to the chief justice to present the case as to who is the rightful sovereign, and though Tamasese, who was vice king when the Germans deposed the former, was at that time an aspirant to the throne, I cannot make up my mind this far from the scene as to the real merits of the dispute, and must make a thorough investigation before proclaiming to the Samoans the name of their monarch.

The chief justice will constitute a court before which all civil suits between Samoans and foreigners shall be tried, and between Samoans themselves; also, all land suits and all criminal suits involving foreigners with natives, or with each other. From the decision of the chief justice there shall be no appeal.

It will be seen from Judge Coderkrantz's talk, though he was too modest to say so, that he will be virtually ruler of the Samoan group and that Malietoa, or whoever the chief justice shall name as king, will be merely a figurehead. There are nine islands in the group, on one of which the United States has the right to the magnificent harbor of Pago-Pago, the best in the kingdom.

A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Parnell Will Stay—Responsible Only to the Irish People, He Says.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Parnell has sent several of his colleagues a communication to the effect that as long as he is supported by the Irish people he will remain at the helm in politics. He says he has never sought either office or reward of any kind from any English party, and he does not seek their assistance now. The Irish people, not English politicians, must decide the question of the leadership of the national party at this critical juncture. He would be false to his duty to say that he should desert the position he [illegible] of private matters with which politics has no concern. When his mission is accomplished and liberty has been won for Ireland after the long struggle against overwhelming odds, the people may choose whom they will want to conduct their local affairs.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Gladstone telegraphs that it is not true that he conveyed any intimation to Parnell of the course he should pursue.

DUBLIN, Nov. 20.—The statement was made in the national conference here to-day that Parnell will resign his seat in parliament at the end of the session and offer himself for re-election.

At a great national meeting to-day the lord mayor made the opening address. He said the only crime of which Ireland would take notice was one Parnell was incapable of committing, viz., treason to the country.

Justin McCarthy, in moving a vote of confidence in Parnell, said he did not ignore the serious nature of the question, but was sure it would not cost them a single friend.

Timothy Healy, seconding McCarthy's motion, said that for Irishmen Parnell was less a man than an institution. McCarthy's resolution was carried amid great enthusiasm.

Students are requested to ask for proofs of the following facts: That after acting as Head Master for a year in Smythe street Academy, Wakefield, he resigned receiving a flattering testimonial and presentation. For eight years after he was Head Master in St. Charles' Grammar School, London, and on his resignation in 1883, he received the highest possible testimonial from his managers. Two years later, on resigning his appointment as Science Lecturer, and First Classical Master in St. Guthbert's Grammar School, Newcastle, the Lord Bishop of Newcastle, Canon Ramsay, and the managers gave him their highest commendation. After this he became Principal of the New Cross High School, and of Bath House College, Twickenham. From successful students preparing for Cambridge, London, Durham, Trinity, Edinburgh Universities; the Law, Medical, Local, Army, Engineering College, and Science examinations, about 50 letters are open to inspection.

Students can take Single Class Subjects, or the Course, and payments will be monthly.

A large number of Rooms are Furnished FOR BOARDERS.

As a teacher Mrs. Pegg holds the certificate of the Lords of the Council on education, England; First Class Kindergarten, Singing, and Science Certificates; and for about 20 years (10 as Head Mistress) was employed in the largest schools in England.

Evening Classes in all Subjects will be commenced at 7 p. m., on Monday, Nov. 10th.

Students can enter for Single classes, or for the course.

THE BARINGS.

The BARINGS, it seems have been a remarkable house in their way. The house for nearly a century has been known in London as an Anglo-American house, antedating in this particular the houses of PEABODY and T. S. MORGAN & Co.' The house has kept the account of the United States for three-quarters of a century. In 1812, when the United States country was at war with Great Britain and there was no communication between the two countries, BARING Bros., without instructions and without remittances, faithfully paid the interest on United States bonds held in England; and in 1864, when the British Government refused to seize the rebel rams without bonds amounting to over a million pounds sterling, BARING Brothers gave the bonds, trusting to Mr. LINCOLN to indemnify them. The crisis seems to have been precipitated by the withdrawal of a large deposit by the Russian Government, which operation, observes the San Francisco Call, seems smarter than it really was. The Russian Government has saved its money, but it would probably have lost nothing if it had let it lie where it was. And the Treasury Department at St. Petersburg will find it difficult to get another banking-house strong enough to keep its account. That account is overdrawn three-fourths of the time—sometimes for very large sums, indeed. Such a house as the ROTHSCHILDS will be slow to accept an account which may require them to advance millions at a time on no better security than Russian honor, if the dealer is likely to draw out his balance—when he has one—just at the moment when the banker can least afford to pay it.

"WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE," ETC.

Respecting KOCH'S great discovery, it is supposed that the substance he is using is either the cyanide or chloride of gold, and it is remarked that this last is the process by which KOCH hopes to arrive at the legitimate conclusion of his work, he has forsaken the beaten paths of PASTEUR and JENNAR and even his own precedent in the case of the "comma bacilus," or the germ of cholera, which he isolated and cultivated, but failed to utilize a year or two ago. In the matter of the medicos who take no stock in what they term the "fallacies of the germ doctrine," we have LAWSON TAIT, the Scotchman, whose achievements in abdominal surgery have made the profession stand still and wonder. At Birmingham only a few months ago, and again at the Berlin congress when the learned doctors were discoursing upon the antiseptic treatment of wounds and the necessity of keeping a wound perfectly free from the ravenous wolves known as bacilli, Mr. TAIT naively remarked that if he could get enough of them together he would use them for a poultice on the first bad wound he got.

Dr. PETERS, the German, who stands at the top with VIRCHOW and BILLROTH and KOCH, says that he doubts the alleged microbe origin of tuberculosis on which Dr. KOCH'S theory and treatment are founded. He believes that the bacillus is produced within and during the formation of the tubercle, and not from without, and says that it is improbable that inoculation can kill the bacillus.

BALFOUR'S HUMOR.

If BALFOUR should suddenly find himself out of employment he might offer himself as a humorist and make a comfortable living at it. Replying to GLADSTONE'S recent speeches, the Secretary for Ireland informed his auditors that since his return from Ireland "it had been his painful duty to plough through a Midlothian rhetorical campaign. He had found the Mitchells-town procession and other ancient figs somewhat more decrepit and wrinkled, but still recognizable as old familiar shapes, doing duty as campaign bugbears." This is not at all bad as a sarcastic effort. Bill Nye could do no better. But the funniest part of BALFOUR'S reported remarks are these in which he describes the flight of O'BRIEN and DILLON as a "melodramatic event." The fugitives "might have sailed openly and in comfort, because the crown is powerless to arrest a man on bail until he has broken his bond by not appearing in court." This is probably good British law, but it is not good Tory policy. Had the "bloody BALFOUR" suspected the flight of the two home rulers he would, probably, have deemed it expedient to suspend the law in their cases.

A BELLAMY COLONY.

According to the Examiner a Bellamy colony is in operation in Santa Clara county, California. The colonists as yet number only four persons, who have paid an initiation fee of $100, and who have signified their willingness to conform to Mrs. WASHBURN'S desires and intentions. Mr. WASHBURN, by the way, is the leader of the movement. The questions which a candidate is required to answer are not so bad. Here are some of them:

Have you maintained yourself in a creditable way for the last year?

Are you wasteful of anything that is useful to man, such as food, clothing, time?

If so, do you pledge yourself to commence this day to be parsimonious of time, saving of food and careful of your clothing?

Will you faithfully attend to your own particular business and in no case attempt to interfere with the business of others?

Will you always conscientiously strive to make harmony, preserve order, keep the peace, avoid tattling, news-carrying, eavesdropping, and do all else and whatever can be done to promote the love, harmony, peace and prosperity, of our commonwealth?

A colony which should carry out the principles involved in the foregoing questions should succeed, and it may be added that if society in its entirety could be persuaded to observe these simple precepts, there would be no need of societies of whatever sort.

MR. TUPPER'S FORGETFULNESS.

It appears that the Provincial Government, as well as the Board of Trade, represented to the Dominion authorities the need of lighthouses, etc. Those who have any curiosity in the matter can gratify it by turning to the Journals of the House for 1887. On motion of Mr. GRANT, seconded by Mr. STENHOUSE, it was resolved that:

"Whereas many valuable ships are navigated on the inland waters of this Province," etc. "And whereas ships have, unfortunately been wrecked in said waters," etc. "And whereas the establishment of lighthouses at advantageous points, etc., would, to a great extent, guarantee the safety of our commercial marine; therefore be it resolved," etc., "that His Honor the Lieut.-Governor be requested to represent to the Dominion Government the absolute necessity of taking steps to establish lighthouses and mark dangerous reefs, etc."

Now, either these representations were not made as requested by the Government, or else TUPPER the younger is strangely forgetful. Which is it? Mr. TUPPER has erred several times, and hence we infer that he has erred this time.

STOCK MANIPULATING.

The financial movements of the last few days indicate pretty plainly the intention of some half a dozen men to control the railway system in the United States. ADAMS has been forced to retire from the presidency of the Union Pacific, HUNTINGTON has lost his grip on the Pacific Mail, while as for VILLARD, he seems to have met his Waterloo. Of the manipulation of stocks which has wrought these changes, the New York Times editorially says:

It is certain that these stocks are among the most extravagantly manipulated and the most purely and irrationally speculative of the whole brood that has infested Wall street within the past year. That they have been rigged with a dishonest purpose we are not prepared to say, but that they have been handled in a manner that should have caused all prudent men who wish to meet their obligations, to keep away from them as they would from a fare-bank, there is, unfortunately, very little doubt. It has been demonstrated for the thousandth time that in Wall street, as everywhere else that business is done, great and rapid gains can be sought only at the risk of greater and more sudden losses. If it should be demonstrated once a week for a century, it would not prevent men from seeking the profit and incurring the risk, and surely newspaper warnings will have but the slightest effect."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The autopsy shows that BIRCHALL'S brain weighed 50¾ ounces. The average weight is 48. An idiot's brain weighs 35. From this add other like instances it is made certain that the moral quality is something apart from mere mental power. Whence is it, then, and what is it; must we include it in the list of faculties which have been acquired? The expediency, however, of hanging such men as BIRCHALL cannot be doubted. If a man with over 50 ounces of brain cannot control his evil propensities it is just as well to deal with him summarially.

Discussing the anticipated modification of the mining laws, the News points out:

"For two years the Government ignored our suggestion and it is probable judging from the remarks of the Minister of Mines, and from the extraordinary legislation which was passed during the last session in connection with the subject) that it would be still disregarded were it not for the forcible manner in which the question was brought home to the administration during the last parliamentary campaign."

And herein lies one of the best of reasons why the Government should go. They are too slow witted. They are like SIDNEY SMITH'S Scotchman, a surgical operation is required before an idea can be lodged in their heads.

According to the Atlantic Constitution the two great parties in the United States will be led respectively in 1892 by BLAINE and HILL. The Constitution thinks that if the Democrats cannot win under HILL they cannot win at all. Of course this is but an opinion, but it indicates the willingness of the Southern Democrats to accept HILL as their candidate. Now, if BLAINE and HILL should be the opposing candidates the tariff question would be somewhat obscured. HILL is the candidate of the New York Sun, which, though a Democratic journal, favors the tariff plank in the Republican platform. Thus, with two weak-kneed free traders in the field the most that could be expected would be a modification of the McKinley tariff. It is not likely that National Policyists will have an opportunity to complain for some years yet that close trade relations with the States is destroying Canadian loyalty.

OUR RECREATION GROUNDS.

TO THE EDITOR.—I would like to draw attention through your columns to the desecration of our beautiful parade on the Dallas road, and to ask the very natural question, who is supposed to look after its preservation? Any one who sees the numbers of people who, all the year round, spend their spare hours, especially Sundays there, will be convinced that those natural beauties, the like of which no other city in the world possesses, are fully appreciated by townsmen and strangers alike.

As neither the proper authorities nor those holding land on the shore front seem to be interested in any way, let me say plainly as a tax payer, that unless those having charge of these places wake up a little to their duties, the citizens will see that they are replaced by men who have the city's interests more at heart. The desecration I refer is to allowing valuable soil and sod to be removed from reserved spots, and unsightly holes dug between the drive and the sea (for example between Simcoe and St. Lawrence streets, where there are fine grass covered knolls), and allowing gravel to be taken from that beautiful beach opposite Senator McDonald's. These are only instances, but unless those persons making free with public property are looked after, the drive will soon have lost its beauty.
I am, "PEOPLE'S RIGHTS."

INVITED TO SPEAK.

TO THE EDITOR:—I presume everyone in this city is aware that Mr. Reynolds is here and engaged every evening in attacking the doctrines of Christianity and disputing the veracity of the Bible, from which orthodox teachers derive their authority. Now, there can be no disputing the assertion that the doctrines of Christianity and the basis upon which they rest are either true or false. If true, they ought to be vindicated by their friends at all times and in all places with all the earnestness and ability that they possess, for upon a belief in them rests man's eternal destiny for weal or woe we are told. Mr. Reynolds has now lectured here two nights, and on each occasion has very respectfully invited any minister of Christ to come forward and defend his Master. So far no response has been made to his invitation, though he offers his opponent one-half or two-thirds of the time without interruption. He further offers his opponent, if he desires it, the full proceeds of a collection he will himself take up and five or even ten dollars to, out of his own pocket, if not thought sufficient compensation for the minister's time and effort. Could any offer be fairer? There are many young people as well as middle-aged and old, among the audience; if the latter are not thought worth their efforts to try and save, will they not try to rescue the young men? If no one of all the preachers and Bible teachers of this city will so much as open his mouth to defend a cause which they all pretend is more dear to them than life itself, what conclusions will the expectant public draw therefrom? A truth and order loving public expect them to defend their faith in the presence of the enemy, or quit forever. Any pretence to a belief they will not utter a word to defend when challenged in respectful argument by one who left their creed and fold. Speak, shepherds, or "hereafter and forever hold your peace." J. M.

GRUESOME AND GHOSTLY.

The Resting Place of the Dead Made a Dissecting Ground.

Chinese customs have been written about and described so much that they have began to be somewhat of a chestnut, but occasionally a most revolting and particularly outrageous freak crops up, which, for a time, horrifies the most ardent pro-Chinese resident.

The latest custom which has come to the knowledge of the press is in the last degree horrible, and in its ghoulish details is absolutely revolting. The other day a TIMES reporter noticed a crowd of half a dozen Chinese at the cemetery, Ross Bay, and as no funeral was in progress the reporter thought he would see what the Mongolians were at, and accordingly he took up a position where he could see and not be seen. The Chinamen, who had shovels, dug down into the grave of a defunct coolie, who had been buried about a fortnight, and in a few moments unearthed the cadaver. One of the Chinamen took a big knife and cut into the flesh near the subject's ankle, drew the knife up the limb to the trunk. The flesh peeled off the bone, it having macerated sufficiently to lose its adhesive properties, and the bones were left bare. The other leg, the arms and the trunk were all treated in turn, the head being the last to be operated upon. The sight was not a pleasant one, and would have disconcerted one of less delicate sensibilities than the reporter. The dressing, or denuding of the skull of its surroundings and internal contents was a hideous and unlovely spectacle. The Chinamen, however, seemed to regard the whole business as a joke and laughed and chatted unconcernedly. The chief of the staff of dissectors seemed to know his business perfectly, and acted as if it was an every day occurrence. As the odorous state of the Chinese part of the cemetery has been often complained of, perhaps the complainants can imagine the reason now.

After the bones had been denuded of flesh they were packed in a box the Chinese had with them, and the decomposing flesh was tumbled back into the grave and the earth filled in, but after the business was over traces of the horrid work could be seen and smelt. Surely something can be done to stop such terrible doings.

BAKER AND SHAKESPEARE.

Their Statement re the Esquimalt Dry Dock Affair Corroborated.

The denials of Messrs. E. Crow Baker and Noah Shakespeare of the allegations made by Mr. Israel Tarte in Le Canadien (Quebec), in the Esquimalt dry dock affair, are fully corroborated by the following letter which has been received by both gentlemen. Mr. M. Connolly writes:

DEAR SIR,—I have to thank you for your kind telegram which, however, led to the improper publication of a letter of mine containing a reflection on you and Mr. Baker, of which I am very much ashamed.

The letter in question was written by me to my partners after a conversation which I had with you and Mr. Baker in relation to the extension of the dock, in which I asked you both to use your influence for us. Mr. Baker replied "What are we to get out of all this?—five thousand dollars?" or words to that effect, jokingly, as your subsequent treatment of me proved. This led me to foolishly use the expression I did.

I desire to say for myself that I afterwards made full explanation to my partners who were aware of the more than fairness with which you had always treated us. Neither you nor Mr. Baker were asked, or received directly or indirectly, any money for your influence in our behalf. The publication of this letter has given me much pain, and I take the earliest opportunity of expressing my extreme regret, and apologizing in the fullest manner.

You are of course at perfect liberty to use this letter as you think proper.
(Signed.) M. CONNOLLY.

WHARF AND WAVE.

Jottings of Interest to Marine Men Concisely Compiled.

Schooner Lily is to go on Turpel's ways for an overhaul.

Captain Grant has gone to Japan to purchase another sealer for the Victoria fleet.

A third scow for the dredge Mudlark is soon to be launched from Turpel's ways.

The steamer Islander will resume her trips to the Mainland to-morrow morning.

The steamer Emma has been sold to Nanaimo parties, and will be kept at that port.

Captain William Peterson of the schooner Alexander, of Frisco, reports the discovery of a dangerous and heretofore unknown rock off Sanack on the Alaska coast. The rock is about 20 feet square and is marked by breakers at low water. Sanack Point bears northeast from it, Hening's Point north east by north, and Cape Pankoff north. It forms a dangerous menace to navigators who hug the coast.

The ship Gatherer, now at Seattle, is a vessel with a history. Under command of Captain Sparks the vessel made a trip from New York to San Francisco. During this voyage cruelties of the most revolting nature were perpetrated on the crew by the captain and the two mates. Two of the crew jumped overboard to avoid the cruelty and several were maimed and deformed by the brutal officers. The Gatherer during that memorable voyage was a floating hell for the crew. On the arrival of the vessel in San Francisco Captain Sparks and the second officer were arrested. The first officer escaped but was captured in Liverpool and brought back to San Francisco for trial. The two mates were convicted and sent to penitentiary, but Captain Sparks being better supplied with money escaped the penitentiary on technicalities. Since then they have served out their time and met their fate. One mate was killed in the Indian Ocean, the other was killed in a brawl, while Captain Sparks jumped overboard off the mouth of the Columbia four years ago.

A Monster Rose Bush.

The trunk of a rose bush which is now in full bloom in Ventura, Cal., is 3 feet in circumference at the ground; the first branch, which is thrown out at a height of about four feet from the ground, is 21 inches in circumference. Wagon-loads of vines (it is of the climbing variety) are clipped from it annually, yet it covers an area of 1,200 square feet. It was planted in 1876. Within another fourteen years, if nothing happens to it, it will have outstripped the gigantic rose tree at Cologne, which has had over three hundred years to grow in.

He Got Things Mixed Up.

A theological student, who was accompanied by his professor to a country place where the former was to preach, prevailed upon the professor to make the opening prayer. Arising to make the announcement, he amazed the congregation by saying: "Professor Smith will now lead us in a petition of the faculty of the H—— Seminary to the throne of grace of which I have the honor to be a student. After accompanying him, your humble servant will attempt to preach the Word whose shoes he is not worthy to unloose."

EFFECT OF LIGHTNING.

Numerous Deaths Occurring in All Parts of the World.

Curious and Appalling Freaks of This Sudden and Unexpected Agent of Destruction—A Physician's Report of a Philadelphia Woman's Case.

The majority of deaths from lightning occurs in the level, open country, trees, villages and thickly built-up towns and cities, by their projections into the air, serving as conductors, and thereby protecting the inhabitants from direct stroke. The loss of life annually throughout the world is very great. In European Russia from 1870 to 1877 no less than 2,370 persons were killed by this cause. In Austria during the same time 1,700 persons were likewise killed. In Prussia it is reported that seventy persons are annually killed. Ten thousand persons are reported as having been struck during a period of nine-and-twenty years, with 3,252 deaths in France, while in the United States during 1870 alone 202 deaths from lightning were recorded.

The effects of lightning stroke are most interesting, curious and appalling. The general symptoms are usually of shock. There is often unconsciousness, sometimes coma, lasting from a few hours to even days; partial or complete loss of sight or hearing, associated with impairment of the other senses. The tissues may be burned superficially or deeply, the bones fractured and portions of the limbs torn off entirely. The tracks of lightning on the surface of the body may have a fancied resemblance to the branches of a tree, the main stems from which the branches lead off arising at any portion of the body. The skin in these tracks may be simply scarlet in color, slightly swelled or blistered, the branches tapering off until no larger than the scratch of a pin. They may pass in all directions from the place first struck or skip about from one part to another. This is due to the conduction of the current by the clothing, which if wet acts as an excellent conductor.

For the purpose of illustrating these effects the following report of a case is taken from the Philadelphia Medical News, reported by a physician who was on the spot at the time the accident occurred, Dr. J. B. Paige:

"The current struck the chimney of the house and passed down the studding near the window to an iron hook on which was suspended a chain and a bird cage, passed from this to the head of the lady, sitting just inside the window, and beneath the cage, above the left eye, midway between the eyebrow and hair, which was apparently the part nearest the corner of the bird cage; passed along in front of the ear, then to the central line of the chest, descending by the stocking supporter, which was attached to the corsets; thence to the top of the stockings, leaving marks upon both limbs, but more especially upon the left, on the back of which, at above the knee joint, was a burn about the size of one's hand. It had the appearance of an ordinary burn, and was only superficial. No trace of the current could be detected again until the foot was reached, from which it passed off by the joint of the great toe, tearing a place about two inches in diameter in the stocking and slipper, but not leaving the slightest mark upon the skin. With the exception of the burned spot on the posterior part of the left leg, and one or two small burns on the body and the right leg, congested veins alone marked the course of the electricity in its passage over the body. Her condition was found to be as follows: Completely unconscious; motionless; muscles relaxed; left eye closed, right eye open; face purple; pulse at wrist imperceptible; neither heart sounds nor respiratory sounds to be heard. At once artificial breathing was resorted to, and in from two to three minutes the first sign of life appeared in a movement of the left leg. The blue color faded from the face and the pulse was felt at the wrist. Soon a new train of symptoms set in. There was difficult respiration. The mucus and saliva, which were freely abundant, had gravitated back and could not be swallowed because of complete paralysis of the pharynx, etc. There was, in fact, paralysis of almost all the muscles of the uppermost parts of the body, including the arms. The symptoms were those exhibited by an animal when being asphyxiated; violent muscular contraction; difficult and hurried respiration, etc. Under continued efforts consciousness returned in three-quarters of an hour. A period of four weeks elapsed before all the bruises and her general health were restored and all paralysis had disappeared. From this, according to the St. Louis Post-Democrat, do we see the effect of lightning in a pronounced degree, and there can be no doubt but that this person would have died from the effects if the physician had not been present to at once resort to artificial or forced respiration and wrap the body to maintain the heat necessary for life.

Why We Sink in Quicksand.

Quicksand is composed chiefly of small particles of mica mixed largely with water. The mica is so smooth that the moments slip upon each other with the greatest facility, so that any heavy body which displaces them will sink, and continue to sink until a solid bottom is reached. When particles of sand are round and angular any weight pressing on them will crowd them together until they are compacted into a solid mass. Sand composed of mica or soapstone, when mixed with sufficient water, seems incapable of such consolidation.

Queen Victoria in Trade.

When a Queen becomes a cattle-breeder and speculator, runs in her own name at stock shows, and carries off all the prizes, we are apt to modify our preconceived notions of royal dignity. And this is what the thrifty old English sovereign is doing, and much to the disgust of the cattlemen and farmers who do not compete with her. She not only gobbles the premiums, but on the strength of them sells off the prize animals at fine prices, and yet aristocratic England regards trade as vulgar.

LAST OPPORTUNITY.

Mr. Seward, the Eminent N.Y. Optician, Preparing to Leave for Home.

Having faithfully promised to be in New York by Christmas, and being obliged to stop for a few days at Portland, Denver, St. Louis, Cincinatti and Washington, Mr. Seward will leave Victoria

Thursday, December 4th.

The prospects are that Mr. Seward will not have time to finish all the work now in sight, before leaving, but if all those intending to call will do so without further delay, he will make the best and finish what he can and send the balance from New York.

Mr. Seward's success has been complete. Hundreds of Victorians have been benefited by his superior skill in adapting glasses, and no failures have been reported.

Mr. Seward's services are in great demand wherever he goes, and it will probably be several years before he will reach this coast again.

Dr. McNaughton Jones, Dr. Milne Dr. Garrow, Postmaster N. Shakespeare, Collector A. R. Milne and hundreds of others now wearing Mr. Seward's glasses speak of the work in the highest terms.

A record of the test and degree of the glasses given in each case is kept on the books for future reference, so that in case of accident, any person can have their glasses duplicated by addressing F. D. Seward, Box 3,567 New York.

Office corner Yates and Douglas sts. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; evenings 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., until Thursday December 4th.

Physical Exercise.

A physician lecturing upon proper physical exertion declared that if only twenty minutes a day were spent in physical exercise as an adjunct, to mental education, we might live to be seventy without a day's illness, and perhaps prolong our lives to a hundred years. It is a well known fact that our Canadian people do not take sufficient physical exercise to maintain a sound mind and healthy body. Our School and College authorities have always endeavored to impress upon the mind of the pupil and student the great necessity of proper physical training, and these Schools and Colleges have all adopted the most improved methods of useful gymnastics.

Physical exercise pursued in youth, cannot in after years keep the body in proper condition, if that exercise is discontinued and neglected. It is owing to this criminal neglect, that we see so many weak and puny men and women around us.

The calls and duties of this American age, lead us so deeply into the mazes of business, literature, art and science, that money is "god," and health is neglected to win the golden idol.

The counting house, the workshop, the household and society with all their turmoils and cares, cause overworked men and women; they get no physical exercise of the right kind; they become weak in body and brain; their nerves are unstrung; they are cross and irritable, and are subjects of insomnia, headache and dizziness. They suffer from dyspepsia and indigestion to such a degree that life becomes a burden to them. They have disregarded the unerring laws of nature, and must suffer, until they seek nature's great remedy.

Paine's Celery Compound is nature's restorer for all such victims of suffering. It is acknowledged by physicians to be the "world's scientific preparation," holding out new life and health to all. Paine's Celery Compound, with a little gentle physical exercise daily, will give to any man or woman the key to the path of earth's happiness and enjoyments.

It will strengthen the great and complicated nerve system, invigorate the brain, and the body will be cleansed and made healthy and pure, and worthy of the spark of heavenly flame that dwells within it.

Why remain in misery when this great restorer is near? It is suicidal and cowardly to go on suffering, and thus spread unhappiness and misery, not only in your family, but in the community as well. Thousands have been raised from utter weakness and hopelessness, to the firm rock of health and strength.

ONE OF THE THINGS
we are apt to grumble at
IN FRANCE,

THE providing of one's own soap at hotels! Permit me to remark that this is one of those things

They do manage better in France

than we do here. I am strongly of opinion that every one when travelling should carry his or her own soap as one takes one's own hair-brush or sponge. It is much more cleanly, and there can be no better providing in this respect for the hot sun and warm winds and dust of travel than a cake of which, under such circumstances, I have found very efficient in the prevention of sunburn and allied annoyances.

A BIG FISH ADVENTURE.

A Tacoma Newspaper Munchausen Relates a Shark Story.

Dave Hume and Fred Wright, while coming in from the straits recently, had an experience that satisfies them as to the shark's fighting weight. They had been down to the halibut banks, off Flattery, in their schooner Lady George, and had just reached the entrance to the straits, when they observed a commotion in the sea half a mile seaward. It approached rapidly, and soon they could see that it was a dozen or more sharks fighting among themselves. They experienced no uneasiness on that account, however, as both had seen such battles before. The combatants approached nearer and nearer, until they were plunging and fighting almost under the schooners foretop.

Seeing this, and being afraid of some damage to the boat, Wright seized his rifle and fired into the wild mass. Finding that it produced little effect, Hume joined him and they both began shooting into the sharks. Hardly had half a dozen shots been fired before they noticed a change. The fighting sea tigers all fell apart and seemed to be intent on finding their new antagonists. All at once several of the sharks plunged directly at the boat and hit it a resounding blow, with force sufficient to knock both men flat on the deck. A second rush was made and then the entire school of fish began pounding on the schooner's bottom and sides. Backing off a dozen rods or more, they would come on with lightning swiftness, hitting the schooner square, making her quiver from stem to stern, while the force of the blow would often stun the shark. Soon there were several floating on the waves, stunned by their own mad rushes, but there were plenty left to keep up the fight.

At the next run one shark aimed too high, and he skimmed over the rail and fell on the deck with a sounding whack, narrowly missing the two badly frightened mariners. The big fish began floundering around and in a few seconds he had that portion of the deck to himself. Hume and Wright were badly rattled by this time and hardly knew what to do. They fired at the shark on the deck, but as they were afraid of making a hole in their boat, they missed him. He pounded the deck with his big flail-like tail, and the sailors were afraid the shark would sink them.

Seizing each an ax, they crept up close to the floundering monster, and dealt him terrible blows. Up went the enormous tail, and striking Wright, he was hurled a dozen feet into the air, falling into the water at the side of the vessel. Luckily the sheets were trailing in the water, as the sail had jibed while they were fighting the shark, and he seized hold and held himself from going down, but to his horror he could not draw himself up into the boat. Scores of ugly fins and noses, attracted by the splash, drew around on that side of the boat, and he began to kick vigorously and to cry for help. Hume had his hands full, and it was several minutes before he could come to his comrade's assistance. Stunning the stiff struggling shark with one blow nicely dealt on its head, he ran over to his friend's aid—and not a moment too soon. As he drew Wright up, several sharks snapped at him, and an exclamation of pain from the half-drowned man showed that he was bitten, while the blood that flowed from his wounded foot dyed the water around for a foot or more. The blood scent made the sharks furious and they began their attacks on the boat again. Fiercely they plunged, and the sailors thought that their last hour had come, as there was little wind, and they well knew that if the sharks once sunk their boat it was "dough" with them.

Suddenly, with an inspiration, Hume dived down into the cabin. Emerging therefrom he held a small can of powder in one hand and a coil of fuse in the other. Swiftly fastening a piece of pork around the can he fastened on the fuse, wrapping around it a piece of rubber coat. After making up this infernal machine he went to the stern, where most of the sharks were. Making a short fuse he fired it, not noting his own danger, and then flung it into the mass of sharks.

Before it had hardly touched the water a big fellow snatched it and swallowed it with a gulp. In a second came a puff, and then pieces of shark were flying all through the air. It was a perfect shower, in fact. The others were dazed, it would seem, for a second, and then all fled as if Old Nick was after them. Mr. Hume says that notwithstanding his peril, he couldn't help laughing at the frantic endeavor of the sharks to get off. In fact, they fairly fell over one another in their flight. He then attended to his comrade, whose foot had been bitten, but they were so thankful that they had escaped from instant death that this seemed a trifle. Now, that Mr. Wright's wound have been healed he laughs at his experience and refers to it as jocularly as though it were an every-day occurrence.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

A private cablegram to Mr. Thompson, now at New York, from Melbourne gave Carbine as the winner of the great Melbourne Cup. The race is a handicap of two miles, with $500,000 added. Carbine is a five year old, and carried 145 pounds.

Stamboul, as a two year old, obtained a record of 2 37; as a three year old, a record of 2.26½; as a four year old, a record of 2.23; as a five year old, a record of 2.17½; as a seven year old, a record of 2.13½; and as an eight year old he trotted to a record of 2.11¼.

The Victoria racing Club of Melbourne has abolished selling races over its famous course at Flemington on the ground that they are generally devoid of interest and foregone conclusions for one horse in the race.

On the Lea, chestnut filly, yearling, by Onondaga, dam Bonny Lea, has been sold by John Madden, of Lexington, to Byron McClelland for $30,000. She cost Madden $500 last spring. This filly is the most sensational youngster ever bred at McGrathiana, she having won two remarkable races here last August, one a quarter of a mile in 22½, the other three eights of a mile in 36½ seconds.

The meeting at Elizabeth just closed has been a phenomenally successful one, and it is estimated that the stockholders will have about $100,000 to divide among themselves after the fifteen days' racing. As the association also has fifteen days in the spring, and as the cost of the plant, including ground, stables, grand stand, race track and everything else was less than $200,000, the profits of racing in New Jersey must be considered eminently satisfactory.

Marigold's two miles in 3.30¼ at the recent Los Angeles meeting was the fastest ever made in a race in America, except by McWhirter, who covered the distance in 3.30. An attempt was made to give Monte Christo a similar record about four years ago, but none of the private watches agreed with it, and it is generally believed to have been an error, as no previous nor subsequent performance of Monte Christo indicated that he was even a second class horse. The only two times that 3.30 has been beaten in a two mile race was in Australia and on both occasions in the Melbourne Cup, Sheet Anchor did it in 3.29½, an aged horse with 104 lbs. up, and Dunlop, a five year old with 115 in the saddle, in 3.28¼. Considering that he was the same age as Ten Broeck and carried five pounds more he does not suffer by comparison.

New Literature.

The World's Desire, by Rider Haggard (Victoria, T. N. Hibben & Co.) The ordinary novel reader has ceased to be surprised at anything coming from the pen of Rider Haggard. He has led us through that uncanny land, Egypt, by his uncanny book "Cleopatra," which, although to a certain extent attractive for its weird style, was not very lasting in its effect. The number of people who read it was enormous, and the present work will likely have the same reception. The title, "The World's Desire," would not lead one to expect anything similar to "Cleopatra," and yet Mr. Haggard leads his readers into Egypt in the time of the divine Pharoahs, and when events point clearly to the struggles of the Israelites for freedom. The story, well defined throughout, teems with magic and deeds of the most improbable and impossible character, but as the old custom of relating mere love episodes of lovers' troubles and trials, is becoming very stale, this is a sort of relief. It means the same though.

"Camille" comes to its favorites (whose number is legion) in an illustrated dress. "Ruffino," by Ouida, is also out in a newer and cheaper edition. "Famous or Infamous," is a new novel by Bertha Thomas. It won't be famous, nor will it be infamous, but it will pass an hour nicely.

"The Pacific Coast Scenic Tour" by Henry T. Finck (New York—Charles Scribner's Sons; Victoria—M. W. Waitt & Co.) People living on the Pacific coast and people wishing to know something about the Pacific coast, should purchase a copy of this handsome volume. It is richly illustrated, printed on fine class paper, and well-bound. Mr. Finck is well known not only for his graceful and happy style, but as an ardent admirer of the beautiful in nature. He is practical withal, and those following his directions for a Pacific coast tour will not be disappointed. He is enthusiastic at times; but then he is deservedly excusable with such a theme and such material to deal with. He takes one through Southern California to Alaska, over the British Columbia section of the C.P.R., with its inconceivable scenic splendor, through the famous Yellowstone Park and the Grand Canyon. And with all this he never once goes beyond the bounds of temperate description, while making a lasting impression upon his readers. The volume teems with valuable information (imparted in a very interesting manner) showing considerable research on the part of the writer. It is a book of travels that may be read with interest.

BODY IN RUM CASK.

It Had a Funny Flavor—Mrs. Le Bon Was in the Cask.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—M. Le Bon, a wine merchant at Nancy, sent a barrel of rum to a friend at Maisalon Saturday last. His friend was pleased, and lost no time in trying a sample of the new arrival, but there was a flavor about it that puzzled him greatly. He tasted it again, and it seemed queerer than before. Determined to solve the mystery he took out the head of the cask, and his horror may be conceived when he saw all that was mortal of Mme. Le Bon, who had disappeared mysteriously three weeks before.

To set the police after Le Bon was the work of a moment, but when they arrived they found he had already done justice to himself by committing suicide! Four workmen and two relatives of the woman have been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the crime.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

WESTMINSTER REALTY.

Big Prices for Government Land at the Royal City.

The sale of Government land at Westminster on Thursday and Friday night seems to have turned out much to the satisfaction of the citizens of the Royal city who predict, by the prices obtained a bright future for their city. Mr. T. J. Trapp, auctioneer, called for the attention of the audience at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening and before the sale was concluded every lot in the government reserve was disposed of, the price being exceedingly high.

The number of lots sold was 146, and the amount realized $56,935. The lots ranged from $200 to $900, the average price being about $500. The principal sale, to-night (Friday) was the brickyard, of which Turnbull & Co., were the lessees, containing 90 lots. The firm valued their improvements on the at block $30,000. The appraisers valued the land itself at $13,800, making a total worth of $43,800, which was the upset price. T. W. Gray bought the block at the above figure for Turnbull & Co. The auctioneer announced that the city and country property, which was first intended to be placed at auction at this sale, had been withdrawn for an indefinite period.

EASTERN CAPITAL.

Looking Towards This Coast for Investment —Worry of Wall Street.

Mr. D. R. Harris, of Lowenberg, Harris & Co., who returned Thursday evening from a flying trip to New York, was met to-day by a TIMES reporter, and speaking on financial matters, said that he did not think the late flurry in the money markets would be in any way disastrous to Victoria's advancement, although a slight depression would be noticeable for a few weeks, but after New Year's the strain would be relaxed in the London markets and money would be easier.

Speaking of eastern financial work, Mr. Harris referred to the risks in operating on Wall street. The men on the stock exchange had a harrowed air and grew rapidly old. For his part he preferred the more steady, although slower, business work of Victoria. The men of finance in New York had no sense of security. They did not know from day to day whether they were to be millionaires or paupers. The moves in the speculations were not sure, and although it was possible to make big fortunes, there was a danger of losing them. The business of Victoria was more solid.

Mr. Harris says that enquiries are being made in the east for investments in Victoria and on this coast, which is now becoming somewhat better known, although to the great majority the actual state of affairs here is a sealed book. It is very likely that large sums will be placed here during the next few months. Business in the east is brisk, especially in manufacturing, all establishments running full blast. The Central & Hudson River Railroad is double tracking its road down the valley of the Hudson, and the business on that line is enormous, and to meet it the facilities have been increased. The accumulation of capital in the east must have an outlet and as this coast becomes better known it will flow here. Although not stated positively by Mr. Harris, it is more than likely that his trip east has been in connection with the handling of several large sums, which have been placed with his firm by eastern capitalists.

While on the homeward trip, Mr. Harris saw several thousand tons of coal at Fort William on fire. The coal which belonged to the C. P. R. was stowed on one of the company's wharfs, and got on fire by spontaneous combustion. Streams of water had been playing on it night and day for a week, but the huge mass of carbon was still burning fiercely, and the sight was a grand one. No other incidents of importance are noted by Mr. Harris on his trip, which was a very pleasant one.

SUBJECTS FOR REFORMATORY.

Two Boys Who Utterly Disregard Their Good Homes.

The police for several months past have been kept busy watching two young boys, named J. Gibbons and Chas. Gordon, who have made it a practice of loafing around the streets at all hours of the night. The boys have been known to do several things that merited arrest, but through the influence of Gordon's father they were not touched. But Chief Sheppard at last had his patience tried and last night, seeing them lurking around in a suspicious manner he ordered their arrest, and they were booked for vagrancy. At the police station a lot of brushes, perfectly new, were found in their possession and the police are now looking for an owner. A bunch of fourteen keys, to fit all kinds of locks, and a taper to light up dark passages, were also things that look suspicious.

Both Gibbons and Gordon, but especially the latter, have excellent homes and better parents would be hard to find. Everything possible was done to try and separate the two; but without avail and at last their parents found it an impossibility to do anything with them. Gibbons, who is hardly five feet high, is about 18 years old, but is by no means a new figure in the police court, he having been there on several occasions; but discharged on account of there being no place to keep them, and his honor did not wish to send them to jail. Gordon, before he began to go with Gibbons, was a very different boy than he is now, having been kept under control by his parents, who feel badly over their son's disregard of their kindness to him.

In the police court both pleaded not guilty to the charge of vagrancy, and Chief Sheppard asked for a remand until Monday to see if he could not find an owner for the articles found on them. The two are still young and a term in the reformatory would no doubt do them good, that is if the government could devise some scheme to teach them a trade. Mixing them up with older prisoners will only make them worse than if they were allowed to continue to loaf around the streets.

High Time.

When weakness, loss of appetite, lack of energy and other symptoms of dyspepsia appear, it is high time Burdock Blood Bitters were made use of. There is nothing else "just as good." It is B. B. B. that cures dyspepsia, so be sure you get it.

Sloop "White Wing" Seized.

The sloop White Wing, formerly owned at Tacoma, and afterwards purchased by Victoria parties, was seized by the customs authorities late yesterday afternoon for non-payment of duty, she being a foreign bottom. She now lies at the custom house wharf subject to the usual penalties should her owners not put in an appearance and effect her release in the usual way. This they will probably do.

Explains the Difficulty.

If you want to show your absent friends where you live, or if you want to explain some topographical matter, there is no better way of doing it than by sending one of T. N. Hibben & Co.'s maps. This shows everything in and around Victoria, and explains everything at a glance. Besides the large map, there is one on a smaller scale, price 50 cents, suitable for sending away.

Not Drowned Yet.

Mr. Charles Flesh has called at this office to deny the report that he and Mr. C. J. Miller were missing. He says the parties referred to as having been in trouble in the straits were a couple of Italian fishermen. Miller and himself are all right, he says, and a long way off drowning, and do not intend to try it for a time. The report of their disappearance arose over the fact that a boat borrowed by them had not been returned to the owner, and thus gave rise to the rumor.

Mr. Grant's Lectures.

Mr. Grant's lecture in the old St. Andrew's church on Courtney street, last evening was pronounced the most interesting of the series. He was greeted with the largest audience present any evening. His subject was "Rome in prophecy, historically fulfilled." He gave many interesting facts connected with that noted city, and showed that, according to the Bible prophecies, the end of that city cannot be far in the future. This evening he will speak on "The Signs of the Times," which promises to be an interesting lecturer. Tomorrow at three o'clock, he will lecture on "Mohammedomism in Prophecy," showing that it will soon cease to tread down Jerusalem; when the king of kings will return to introduce the millennium. In the evening at 7.45 he will give his last lecture in this city. Subject: "Coming Events" or what we may look for between now and the second coming of Christ, and what he will do at his coming. Mr. Grant's next lectures are to be given in Portland, Oregon. Many are now regreeting they have not heard the whole course. It has been a rare treat for Bible students.

At St. Luke's, Cedar Hill.

Quite a number of city people went out last evening to attend the concert given at Cedar Hill in aid of the church warden's fund, St. Luke's. There was more than a good attendance, the place was literally packed, so that efforts had to be made to provide seats for the surplus attendance. Rev. Mr. Brown opened the proceedings which commenced with a glee "A roving," very full, fresh and vigorous. The Misses King contributed a very acceptable duette and were followed by Miss Tolmie who was loudly praised for a nicely rendered song. Mr. Landels gave a reading, after which there was a very enjoyable farce entitled "A Musical Family." It was prettily acted by a number of children. Mr. Lambertson's solo was much appreciated, but the duette by Mrs. Sabine and Mrs. Stevens was loudly redemanded. Mr. Pollock recited one of Sir Walter Scott's poems, after which the first part of the programme was closed with "Darby and Joan" by the Misses Keen who were encored. The second part opened with a glee "Away, away," which led to the serving of refreshments. These were by no means the least acceptable item on the programme as was evidenced by the evident and hearty appreciation of the audience, who went home thoroughly pleased with their evening's outing.

The Swedish Quartette.

The Victoria was really packed last evening by a thoroughly enthusiastic audience who listened with unfeigned appreciation to the Swedish quartette, or really quintette, because Miss Barden is a part and an important part of the combination. The maid portion appeared in their picturesque native costume which added considerably to the effect produced. Musically the evening could scarcely have been better spent by those who went. The numbers given were for the most part, quaint, familiar songs and ditties which carried with them by no means unpleasant recollections. Everything the company sang was warmly redemanded, and one heard such old songs as "The Lullaby," "Annie Laurie," and others delivered in a perfectly natural spirit. Miss Laura Barden contributed not a little to the evening's interest. She has all the elements for a first class elocutionist at present, and has the rare recommendation of having some originality of style. She recited "The Ruggies Dinner Party," "That Horrid Word Imphm," "The Chariot Race," from Ben Hur, and "The Settler's Story."

So delighted were the audience, that by special request the company will appear again this evening with an entirely new programme, which is as follows:

PART FIRST.

Quartette—"Stina Polka" ..... Wahlin
Recitation—Scene from "London Assurance" ..... Dion Boucicault
Miss Barden.
Tenor Solo—"I Am Waiting" ..... Birgh
Mr. Skoog.

Recitation—"One Day Solitary" ..... Trowbridge
Miss Barden.

PART SECOND.

Quartette—{a. Serenade, "Swatmerie," b. "Kor i vind Polka," Becker—Wahlin
Bass Solo—"A Mariner's Home's the Sea," Mr. Wennerberg [Sandegger
Trio—"Te sol quest Anima, (Believe Me) Verdi
Messrs. Skoog, Pugh and Skoog.
Quartette—"The Bill of Fare," (by request) Zoher
Recitation—"The Jinery" ..... Anon
Miss Barden.
Quartette—"Home, Sweet Home" Air by Abt

Result of Good Credit.

A gentleman of this city, speaking of the sewerage by-law loan, said it was unfortunate that it is to be floated such a time, while the money market is somewhat strained. He thinks that a slightly higher percentage may have to be paid for the money, but the increase will be very small, if any, as the credit of Victoria is so well known. However, a better result perhaps might have been obtained later on.

Fighting Over the Spoils.

The long pending Chinese perjury case, which has come up day after day since last September in the city Police Court, was at last brought to an end this morning, when Mr. Eberts, for the prosecution, abandoned the case, saying that some of the evidence that they had expected to produce was not attainable, and so the defendant was discharged. The solicitors for the defendant claim that the case had to be abandoned on account of the Chinese prosecutors, who, they claim, are fighting over the division of the money that is alleged to have been stolen from the defendant in the perjury case, the same man who acted as prosecutor in the alleged robbery case. The case has been a mixed up affair from the beginning it having appeared to have been a fight between two societies.

NOVELIST AND SOLDIER.

Captain A. C. P. Haggard in the City.—Active Service in Egypt.

Captain Andrew C. P. Haggard, D. S. O., of the King's Own Scottish Borderers, who is a guest at the Driard, is a brother of Rider Haggard, the famous novelist, whose books, notably "She," have been read by nearly everybody.

Captain Haggard is also an author of considerable note. He wrote "Dodo and I," published by Blackwood, and "Ada Fiscott." (Hurst and Bleckett.) He has also written a volume of polyglot poems, and several exceedingly good short sketches. Although an author and poet, Capt. Haggard has seen much active service, having been one of the officers of the British Army detailed for service with the Khedive of Egypt during the Soudan troubles, and was Lieutenant-Colonel of an Egyptian regiment, with which he went through the war. Capt. Haggard had always before that been given to understand that the Egyptians would not fight, but in six months his regiment was under fire 275 times, and behaved nobly. Although a rough and ill paid body of soldiery, the Egyptians would fight like demonds, rushing to battle with their piercing cries of "Allah il Allah," and appearing utterly regardless of wounds and death. They proved they were good fighters and besides were faithful and hardy men.

Capt. Haggard was also for a considerable time in the Indian service, where he distinguished himself and won laurels with his sword, as well as fame as a writer. He is now enjoying a well earned rest and desires to recuperate his health, which has been slightly broken by the severe climate of the East Indies. He believes the bracing air of Victoria is beneficial, and will make a stay here for a time. The captain is a genial and pleasant companion, a brilliant conversationalist and a thorough man of the world.

Y. M. C. A. Services.

The usual Sunday service will be held at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association to-morrow. Mr. W. Nettle will speak in the afternoon on "True Happiness." All men will be welcome.

Rumored Changes.

The rumored changes in the presidency of the Union Pacific Railway Co. will not prevent the excursion to Port Angeles on the 30th inst. Two full brass bands have been engaged and the finest steamer on the Pacific coast will be in her best shape for the occasion. Appearances indicate that it will be the largest affair of the kind ever known in this locality.

Ho! For Port Angeles.

The recent excursion to Port Angeles proved so popular that another has been arranged, this time by Messrs. Routledge & Co., on Sunday, the 30th inst., by steamer Olympian to the county seat of Clallam county. The tickets are placed at a moderate figure, arrangement have been made to run a special train from Nanaimo to connect with the excursion boat, and if the weather is at all propitious, a pleasant time may be anticipated, with an unusually large number of excursionists in attendance.

Well Satisfied.

The ladies of the R. C. pro-Cathedral had every reason to feel satisfied at the result of their bazaar when they beheld the large array of visitors who thronged into Philharmonic Hall last evening. The tables were relieved of their heavy weight of the pretty things by eager purchasers, and the raffle checks were filled up with the names of the gentlemen visitors. A second promenade concert went far to make the evening a pleasant one, some well known local talent taking part. This evening the drawings in the raffles will take place, and perhaps a few blank spaces on the raffle sheets will be filled up.

A Musical Event.

Mr. R. C. Behenna, of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau, Chicago, was in the city yesterday to arrange with Mr. Frederic Adderley for the appearance here of eight young ladies from Stockholm, Sweden, and Mr. Melvin R. Day. They will give two grand concerts, December 27th and 31st, in the Victoria theatre. The organization was completed by Prof. August Edgrew, choirmaster for the King of Sweden, and at each town they have visited large and enthusiastic audiences have greeted them. A concert by eight ladies will at least be a novelty, and Mr. Adderley must be congratulated on having secured them.

Guessing Match.

To induce cash trade, Lange & Co. will have another guessing match this year. The gifts given are very elegant and valuable. There will be nine presents.

1st prize—Gent's Gold Watch.

Aldermanic Notes.

Mayor Grant has called a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen for this evening, to consider important business.

Alderman Harrison has given notice that he will ask leave at the next meeting of the aldermen to introduce a by-law to amend the by-law to amend the by-law relating to the width of streets to be taken over be the city.

He Will Return.

A report was in circulation a few days ago that a well known contractor living in the northern part of the city, who went across the Sound, had deserted his family and did not intend to return. He told an officer that that was his intention, but those who are in a position to know state that he will return all right, a fight in which he was one of the principals being the cause of his retreat for the Sound, where he expects to get rid of a pair of back eyes the result of the quarrel.

Too Much Competition.

Some time ago two sons of Israel each opened gents furnishing and general stores on Store street, adjoining one another. This action did not make them the best of friends and several little quarrels took place between them, which were ventilated in the police court this morning. By the evidence produced it appears that some pretty hard words were used which caused Jacob Lukov to be summoned by J. Marks for using grossly insulting language. A fine of $5 was imposed on the defendant, who seemed to be well enough pleased, but the prosecutor showed his displeasure by saying, "Vat is $5 to him? Vy, he will curse me every day."

Couldn't Pay Their Fine.

When Jennie Chickens is unable to scrape up enough money to pay her fine for being drunk, it is a good sign that money is scarce in Stronachville, the habitation of women and men of Jennie's style. She was fined $5 yesterday, and promised that she would pay it, but this morning she again appeared in the box and received her sentence of one month, during which time she will help to keep the provincial jail clean.

Harry Wilson, who supplied liquor to Jennie, met with the same luck that his victim did, and accordingly he was sent up for two months with hard labor, during which time he will be asked to earn $50 for the province, as he could not pay that sum to the city.

News in Saanich.

A gentleman from the city had business out at Saanich yesterday which necessitated his making the acquaintance of several farming people. He says it is surprising to see the avidity with which they devour any news from town, and peculiarly mixed ideas which prevail as to matters generally. One asked the visitor how the young man Birchall, who was hanged in Victoria a day or so since, had met his death, and how his wife was bearing up under the cruel blow. The gentleman was at considerable pains to explain to her that Birchall was hanged in Woodstock and that his wife lived in Woodstock, both places being situated in Ontario, some three thousand miles from Victoria. "Oh!" said the poor old lady, "I thought it all happened in Victoria, I was reading about it in the papers."

Exciting Sport.

Lovers of exciting stort have been enjoying themselves to their hearts' delight this afternoon, and many a little bruise which at any other time would be painful is hardly felt by the Victorian whose excitement would not allow pain to bother him. Ladies and gentlemen, mounted on fine-looking horses have been scouring the country, not stopping for fences and ditches, but keeping straight ahead, following the line paper. A little stumble was not noticed but passed off with a laugh, all returning to "Fernwood" the residence of Hon C. E. Pooley in the best of spirits.

The other games Rugby and Association football, have been engaging the attention of visitors at the Hill, the former game was played by native British Columbians against the world. The Association was a practice game to prepare the boys for their match with the Nanaimo team on Christmas day.

Diamond Palace.

Mr. A. A. Clayton, who recently purchased Mr. W. H. Pennock's interest in the jewelry business of Pennock & Clayton, has re-christened the store, and it is now known as the "Diamond Palace." A large and varied stock of holiday goods is displayed, and none but skilful and competent workmen are employed in the manufacturing and repair department. Chronometers cleaned and rated a speciality. Mr. Clayton guarantees satisfaction to all customers. c. Nov 20-1mo
